The Philadelphia Regional Colloquium in the History of Science, Technology and Medicine continues with an examination of the relationship between industry, academics and government in developing regulatory policy. Dominique Tobbell is a Haas Fellow at the Chemical Heritage Foundation and a doctoral candidate in the Department of History and Sociology of Science at Penn. She holds a B.Sc. in biochemistry from the University of Manchester and spent a year working as a research scientist for AstraZeneca.

This event is made possible by generous support from the American Philosophical Society, the Chemical Heritage Foundation, the Hagley Museum and Library, the Department of History at Princeton University, and the Department of History and Sociology of Science at the University of Pennsylvania.
